NOVEMBER 9, 2015

Corporate Partner Timothy Kincaid has been named to Chicago Daily Law Bulletin's "40 Under Forty."

Mr. Kincaid is recognized for his ability to balance practical problem-solving skills with technically sound legal counsel. A balance that, as the publication notes, is not achieved by many lawyers at the age of 34.

"Tim represents the best of Winston & Strawn," said Oscar David, co-chair of the firm's M&A and Securities & Capital Markets Practices. "He is an outstanding substantive attorney who is always prepared for each transaction. He combines an unmitigated work ethic with a strong ability to connect with clients and even opposing counsel and their clients. He is tough when he needs to be, but always brings a sense of calm about him that inspires others and often disarms the other side. His sense of loyalty is unparalleled. In short, clients simply want Tim on their side for their most sophisticated matters."

Heidi Miller of client Morningstar, Inc., praised Tim as well.

"What sets Tim apart is his ability to provide sound, reasoned counsel in high-pressure situations and under tight timelines," she said. "He always maintains a positive attitude, which makes him very easy to work with even during tense times of a transaction."

Mr. Kincaid's practice focuses on private equity transactions and mergers and acquisitions.
