Warren is a former U.S. Army officer with Top Secret Security Clearance. He focuses his practice on a broad range of litigation matters.

Warren is a prior Winston summer associate. Before entering law, Warren had a distinguished active-duty career as a U.S. Army officer. Throughout his time with the U.S. Army, Warren served in various staff and leadership roles in the Pacific and Middle East theaters, where his responsibilities included critical asset supply chain management, government contract solicitation and selection, and foreign military sales of defense technologies and training. Warren specialized in cost reduction and process improvement, and spearheaded several process overhauls that streamlined military operations, resulting in significant cost savings and operational efficiencies. Warren's leadership experience includes command in both operational deployments and the continental United States.
